Warranty. The developer shall provide a two-month warranty period after the website is finally launched online. The warranty only includes technical assistance (programming, debugging, and troubleshooting) with HTML and CSS coding to existing pages. It shall not include any revision to the design and layout of the website.

Termination of Work. In any event, that this AGREEMENT shall terminate before the web development starts, the developer shall return fifty percent (50%) of the initial payment to the client. On the other hand, if termination shall occur in the course of the development, the developer shall return ten percent (10%) of the initial payment to the client. The Client shall not terminate the web development project once a prototype has already been delivered.
